OCEAN MYSTERY IS CLEARED UP

Franconia Saves Thirteen Out of Crew of Thirty-Three of the British Steamship Columbia Burned at Sea

On Board Steamer Franconia, via Sable Island, May 5.—Thirteen survivors of the British steamer Columbia, bound from Antwerp for New York, which caught fire at sea Sunday night, were picked up today by the Cunard liner Franconia, bound from Liverpool for Boston. In the boat with the survivors was the body of Chief Steward Matthews.

Another boat, containing the chief and second officer and 17 men is missing.

The rescued aboard the Franconia are: James Drohan, wireless operator; Antoine Elias, carpenter; Ivar Iversen, boatswain's mate; Unguse Prinz, Jens Jensen, A. Abelnick, quartermaster; Gustav Schirhorn, donkey man; Thomas Connor, Juri Let and Arthur Brantlik, able seamen; Antony Cordenes and Bennett Rolter, firemen, and Frank Wedekind, mess room steward.

The survivors suffered terribly during 40 hours' exposure in an open boat. Their exhaustion was so great that it was impossible to obtain a coherent story from them several hours after their rescue.

The Columbia, which is owned by E. Leyland and Company, Limited, of Liverpool, caught fire Sunday night, when about 300 miles south of Cape Race. A series of violent explosions followed almost immediately. Captain McDonald gave orders to the wireless operator, James Drohan, to send out calls for assistance, with the information that the ship was afloat.

Drohan was flashing out one of these cries for aid, when an explosion destroyed the wireless apparatus and the Columbia was cut off from communication with nearby ocean liners which might have lent succor.

With their vessel heeling flames and wrecked by the intermittent explosions, the crew found themselves helpless. Safety lay only in abandoning the steamer, and this the captain ordered when the flames became almost uncurable.

The crew left the Columbia in two boats. Chief Steward Matthews was in charge of the first, which was dropped over the windward side. Drohan, the wireless operator, went with him, his apparatus wrecked beyond possibility of being of any further help in obtaining aid.

This boat put away from the steamer and lay-to for a time, waiting to meet the second boat. Its occupants watched the steamer, from which tongues of flame darted through a pall of dense smoke which shut out view of the Columbia's sides. The second boat did not appear, and the first craft drifted away.

Of their sufferings during the 40 hours in which they were tossed about, and at the death of Chief Steward Matthews during this time, the men could say little when they were brought on the decks of the Franconia.

Food and sleep were matters of first consideration for the survivors and both were given them. Sympathetic passengers offered assistance to the shipwrecked ones, but Captain Miller of the Franconia saw to it that they were first given the required rest.

Meanwhile, having learned that another boat with 16 men, probably including McDonald, was still missing and supposedly adrift, Captain Miller ordered the Franconia turned about and set to cruising in search of the second boat. No trace of the second boat had been obtained late tonight.

Word for the rescue and of the boat adrift was flashed out to other vessels within call of the Franconia's wireless, and it was hoped that this notification would result in the discovery and rescue of the missing men.

New England Delegates at Meeting in Boston Favor Portsmouth for Muster

There is a chance for Portsmouth to have the New England League Veterans Firemen's Muster. At the meeting held in Boston on Tuesday a committee of five were appointed to select the place for the big event. Nearly every delegate present favored Portsmouth for the muster and the committee were given two weeks to see what could be done to land it here. A few of the delegates wanted to hold it at Nantasket Beach, but the rules of the association would have to be sustained to allow the event to be held at any place where other attractions are on. In the meantime the committee of which Florence W. Gray is a member will get busy at once and work hard to have the muster held here. Another meeting will be arranged with the Board of Trade to see if that body will assist financially.

Will Open May 18 and United States Will Endeavor to Get Carranza to Take Part.—Mexicans are Strengthening Their Position About Vera Cruz

Washington, May 6.—Secretary Bryan announced last night that the three South American mediators in the Mexican difficulty would meet at Niagara Falls, Canada, May 18, to receive representatives of the parties to the controversy. Mr. Bryan said:

"The mediators have notified the different parties that Niagara Falls, Canada, has been selected as the place where the mediators will confer with representatives of the different parties interested in the mediation and that May 18 has been fixed as the date when the conference will begin."

Washington, May 5.—Development in the Mexican situation today were divided between the diplomatic and military status.

The South American mediators continued their sessions throughout the day and for the first time it became authoritatively known from them that they considered the whole range of American affairs as properly embraced in their work.

Their reply to Carranza has made this clear and while eliminating him from the mediation for the time, left the door open to him to come into proceedings later.

At the war department it became clear that the status quo at Vera Cruz would be maintained with no advance of the American forces unless to repel attacks. That it was known that a definite course of action had been outlined in the event of a resumption of hostilities at Vera Cruz and the extension of the campaign toward Mexico City.

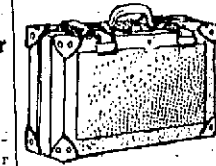

It was known that Major General Leonard Wood will be in supreme command with General Punston agreeing to advance beyond Vera Cruz and General Charles J. Bailey of the coast artillery assuming command of the base at Vera Cruz.

This arrangement, however, is wholly in the line of preparedness and slightly in the purpose of being out of the question. Congress after a considerable period of silence on Mexico again turned into the situation. In the senate, Elliott of Rhode Island introduced a resolution calling on President Wilson for information as to the published reports that it was the administration's purpose to arm General Villa to secure the Presidency. During a brief but spirited discussion Senator Lodge read from a London paper a scathing denunciation of Villa. The 140th resolution went over until tomorrow under the senate rules. President Wilson and his cabinet held the regular Tuesday meeting, but it was announced afterwards that only routine business had been conducted. Secretary Bryan, later it was understood went over with the President the entire status of the mediation negotiations and particularly the names of the American delegates.

PEACE CONFERENCE AT NIAGARA FALLS

The sessions of the mediators continued through the day with the three Huerta delegates now named and understood to be on the way; the United States not yet designated, and Carranza definitely eliminated from mediation so long as he persisted in his present attitude. The destination of the Huerta delegates was not clear. It became known that Huerta wished the negotiations to take place in neutral territory, suggesting Canada as a suitable location.

But this had encountered opposition on the ground that Canada being a British colony might introduce into the negotiations a European element; and also because it was believed the British government would not be particularly desirous of having the controversy brought within its domain. It was said that ten days might elapse before definite work on a settlement could begin with the arrival of the Mexican delegates.

The text of the note from the mediators to General Carranza, made public during the day stated definitely that all the difficulties which contributed toward the present situation in Mexico bear either directly or indirectly on the solution of the pending conflict between Mexico and the United States.

The mediators therefore announced that all these difficulties should be made the subject of consideration in the negotiations.

The mediators are proceeding with their general plans by which they hope to bring about a peaceful solution of the differences between Mexico and the United States. They consider it essential that there be an avoidance of hostile acts.

Outside of the mediators some of the foreign diplomats took the view that the elimination of Carranza and the limitation of negotiations to demands for indignities to American patriots and marines would be a step in advance. They pointed out that President Wilson and Secretary Bryan insisted that the troops were sent to Vera Cruz wholly to redress the indignities. If therefore the mediators could furnish a formula for this redress there was no reason they considered why the troops should not be withdrawn and the present crisis as between Huerta and the United States ended.

Other diplomats were doubtful whether the troops once at Vera Cruz would or could be withdrawn until a complete settlement had been effected.

The military situation is being materially affected by the diplomatic status. Carranza is active against Huerta, while Huerta has his hands full in watching the United States forces in Vera Cruz. The American forces will not advance while Huerta is suspended. Huerta is hesitating to take his troops from Mexico City to mass them against Carranza. Strategically, Huerta has the United States forces marking time in his front and the Carranza forces advancing in his rear.

During the day the state department announced that Dr. Ryan, the American threatened with death as a spy, would be staid from Mexico City for Vera Cruz on a refugee train on Thursday night. He is in the care of the Mexican Foreign Minister Ruiz.

Washington, May 5.—Information came from Vera Cruz to the War Department today that the Mexican Federal troops have mined the railroad tracks from Vera Cruz to Mexico City, in preparation for the destruction of the road in the event that the American forces attempt a march on the capital.

No confirmation had been received of reports that the San Francisco bridge, on the Inter-oceanic Railroad, had been damaged.

The mines are reported to be located, a half mile apart, and Mexican soldiers have been detailed to touch off the fuses should hostilities ensue.

These preparations and the throwing up of defenses which are daily making the position of the Mexican Federal troops stronger, are known to be a source of worry to Gen. Ponsón, and it is understood that he would welcome orders to start for the Mexican capital at once.

Mayo Wants to Take Tampico

Admiral Mayo at Tampico has informed the Navy Department that he would have no trouble in taking Tampico with his present forces, and it was learned today that he has more than once hinted in his dispatches that it would be advisable to take such action. He has now under his command, in addition to his flagship, the Des Moines, two cruisers and a torpedo boat destroyer fleet of nine that a Naval transport meet at Puerto Mexico, some time today, the refugees who left Mexico City last night. The vessel will bring them to Vera Cruz, where they will be transported northward.

The groups were given liberty last night for the first time since their arrival here. The city was quiet and the behavior of the soldiers was excellent, many of them visiting cafes and the plaza. There was not the slightest disorder.

The situation at Tampico was unchanged yesterday, according to official advice received here.

MEDIATORS TOLD CARRANZA

That All the Difficulties in Mexico Have Bearing on "Solution of Mexican-United States Conflict."

Washington, May 5.—The text of the Mexican mediators' telegram to Gen. Carranza, eliminating him from the mediation proceedings, which became known today, disclosed authoritatively for the first time that the mediators hold "that all the difficulties which contributed toward the present situation in Mexico bear either directly or indirectly on the solution of the pending conflict between Mexico and the United States."

The mediators declare in their answer that all these differences "should be made the subject of consideration in the negotiations" for whose successful conduct "we have deemed it indispensable to suspend hostilities." Should Carranza not deem it so the mediators wrote that they would be compelled "to withdraw as inappropriate" the appointment of a Constitutional representative.

Text of Note to Carranza

The text of the note from the mediating envoys, which was sent yesterday to Carranza, withdrawing the invitation for a Constitutional representative to come to Washington to participate in the mediation, was as follows:

"We have received your telegram, in which you are kind enough to tell us that you deem it incongruous for the Constitutional cause to suspend hostilities against Gen. Huerta on the ground that such suspension would only inure to the benefit of Huerta and in which you declare that the international conflict between Mexico and the United States, for whose solution you accepted our good offices, is independent of the internal strife in that country.

Between Mexico and United States.

"We consider this unexpected statement as inconsistent with the idea which caused us to offer our good offices. We think, indeed, that all the difficulties which contributed toward the present situation in Mexico bear either directly or indirectly on the solution of the pending conflict between Mexico and the United States. Consequently, we think that these difficulties should be made the subject of consideration in the negotiations, for whose successful conduct we have deemed it indispensable to suspend hostilities.

"Should you not deem it so, we would be compelled, in that case, to withdraw as inappropriate our invitation for the appointment of representatives of the Constitutionalists in such negotiations.

"We beg to assure you of our highest consideration."

Second Carranza Message

The foregoing message was sent in reply to one from Carranza outlining his refusal to enter into an agreement to suspend hostilities against Huerta. A second message has been received by the mediators from Carranza, in which he specifically asked them to make definite the terms and scope of the negotiations before he proceeded to appoint representatives. No reply was sent to this telegram, as the attitude of the mediators was embodied in the former note.

The Constitutionalists are reported as taking the position that as they are continually threatening the overthrow of the Huerta Government they should not stop in the middle of the stream.

No Stop in Midstream

Representatives here of Carranza declined to comment on the last communication from the mediators to the Constitutional chief beyond saying that they do not intend by their action to prejudice in any way the settlement of the difficulties which brought about hostilities between Huerta and the United States, their hope being that in this respect mediation would be successful and avert war.

The language of the note from the mediators leaves it open for Carranza to send a representative here to confer with the three South American envoys at any time in the future that he is willing to suspend hostilities.

Persons here in the confidence of Carranza say that the only first step toward peace he would accept would be an announcement from Huerta of his intention to resign.

President Early at Work

President Wilson was at his new home uniforms they wore before the American advent.

An hour earlier than usual he received reports from the War and Navy Departments, regarding conditions at Vera Cruz and the Mexican border. He also talked with Sec. Bryan on the diplomatic branches of the situation.

For the first time since the occupation of Vera Cruz the regular session of the Cabinet today lasted less than an hour. After the conference Cabinet members said that there was practically no discussion of the Mexican situation, and that the time was devoted to departmental routine.

State Department of delegates to act in an advisory capacity with the envoys. It was believed the mediators would be ready to outline their scheme for relieving the situation over the Tampico flag incident and other alleged offenses against the dignity of the American Government in Federal territory.

Sessions in New England

Where the sessions of the mediators will take place had not been determined, but in official circles here today it was believed some quiet New England resort would be chosen. The delegates will have no executive part in the preliminary negotiations. They will transmit proposals of the mediators to their principals, and reply with limitations of the lengths to which both parties would go toward adjustment of differences.

The envoys of Argentina, Brazil and Chile made known today that they resumed their session before they intended to remain in complete charge of the negotiations.

Zapata Threatens Huerta

Huerta's position in Mexico is declared today to be increasingly precarious. Zapata, the Southern rebel, according to reports in Vera Cruz, threatened to attack the Federal capital today. One of Huerta's chiefs in operations around Torreon, was said to have declared he never would direct another battle against the Constitutionalists. He was dissatisfied with the support Huerta accorded him in battles against the Carranza invasion.

Plots in the Army against Huerta are growing, it was asserted. Huerta's sudden change in the situation in Mexico City would affect the mediators' program for general settlement was a topic of discussion by observers.

Refugees in Mexico City

The influx of Americans into Mexico City from outlying districts continued today, and arrangements for their transportation to East Coast ports were hurried. Appeals of isolated groups of Americans for military escorts were received by Sir James Carrlen, the British minister in Mexico City, who is cooperating with the Brazilian minister for their relief.

The United States consuls at Progreso, Puerto Mexico, Frontera and Carmen were ordered to turn over their interests to French consular officials. That was one of the features of the program of preparations for eventualities.

Reports that the Constitutionalists had notified Rear Admiral Mayo that if his vessels attempted to enter the Panuco River at Tampico, burning oil would be let loose upon the town, excited no comment here. It was believed the American naval officer would not be compelled to make any aggressive move, and would await the gradual reduction of the Federal garrison by an embargo on food supplies.

Consul Canada at Vera Cruz notified the State Department today that the foreign consuls had arranged to send messages to Mexico City once a week.

Heavy Guns Heard at Tampico

Washington, May 5.—Firing continues daily at Tampico between Constitutional and Federal forces, according to a report transmitted from Admiral Mayo by Admiral Badger today. Heavy guns were heard yesterday morning.

The steamship Camaguey, which has arrived at Vera Cruz from Tampico, reported that Mexican Federal forces at the latter port were reinforced by 1500 men last week.

Inquiry About J. R. Silliman

Washington, May 5.—Arrived by an official report that Acting American Consul John B. Silliman at San Luis Potosi, Mex., has been a prisoner of Gen. Maas, Mexican Federal commander, for two weeks, the State Department today sent urgent telegrams to the Brazilian Minister in Mexico City, Consul Miller at Tampico and Consul Hanna at Monterey.

Mr. Silliman's regular post was San Luis Potosi in the present emergency. Has Huerta Agreed to Retire?

Vera Cruz, May 5.—Refugees arriving today from Mexico City bring conflicting reports concerning the purposes of Provisional President Huerta. Some say that, realizing the hopelessness of the situation, he has agreed to retire from the Presidency. Being Thursday of this week as the date of his withdrawal.

On the other hand, other reports from the capital, originating in sources no less credible, declare that Huerta, instead of yielding, has determined to play out the game. He is fully aware that mediation will mean time, even if it does not lead to an amicable adjustment of the difficulty.

Militia Fired Over Line

Brownsville, Tex., May 5.—It was learned yesterday that an attempt was made Saturday to dynamite a large irrigation pumping plant on the Rio Grande, 16 miles above Brownsville, and on Sunday night a detachment of State Militia guarding the plant exchanged about 150 shots with persons across the international boundary.

Militia men in Brownsville will be replaced by United States troops this week, but guards at irrigation projects and several isolated towns up the river are expected to be maintained by the Texas National Guard.

Reorganizing Vera Cruz

Vera Cruz, May 5.—A number of representatives of Vera Cruz held a meeting today for the purpose of giving impetus to the organization of certain subsidiary civil departments and to assist generally in the reestablishment of municipal institutions. Committees were appointed which will cooperate with the Americans in the reopening of schools and the conduct of hospitals, asylums, etc.

Others and minor employees of the old Government who are still in Vera Cruz were urged to report for duty. They were requested to accept and make the best of the present situation, without condemning or approving it.

Capt. Frank E. Bainford of the 23rd Infantry, head of the Department of Public Safety, already has gone for his work of reorganizing the old Vera Cruz police force. A Cuban, who for several years has been engaged in secret service work in Mexico, is at the head of the new organization. Already 150 members of the old Vera Cruz police force have reported for duty. They will be sent out in the

HUERTA HAS OUTGENERATED SECRETARY BRYAN-GALLINGER

Concord, May 5.—While in New Hampshire Senator Jacob H. Gallinger, speaking of the possible retirement of Bryan from the secretaryship of state, said:

"Mr. Bryan would do far better in some other position," said the senator, "but I fear the country will not be rid of him for the present. He is not built for the state department. Huerta has outgeneraled him in every instance in their present controversy. Mr. Bryan appears to be in cahoots with Villa, who is a professional murderer, and has made a business of killing men."

For pay, Bryan is certainly a mighty secretary of state. Senator Gallinger made a tour of Mexico not long ago and is well acquainted with the Mexican character. He refers to President Huerta as a "wily, old Indian" and believes the situation across the Rio Grande is serious in the extreme, although the intelligence he has personally received he describes as "chaotic and misty." Mediation, he thinks, may be a success and may not. Since the terms for consideration have not been given out, it is impossible to discuss it authoritatively. Senator Gallinger said, "We do not know yet what conditions President Wilson will impose. If he demands that Huerta get out, and remain out of the election for the presidency, the clever Huerta may reply that he will retire if Wilson will do so, or if this country claims compensation for injury done to our citizens by Mexican soldiers, Huerta may demand a return for damage caused by our occupation of Vera Cruz. It is safe to say that Huerta, who has got the best of our diplomats so far, will hold his own in the preliminaries connected with mediation proceedings. Through the kindly offices of the governments of the three South American republics that have interested themselves, we may escape war by a distribution of the offices at the head of the Mexican government between Huerta and Carranza."

Senator Gallinger is anxious to avoid war, if possible, but if it comes he will stand behind the president, and believes all citizens should do so, regardless of whether they approve of the occupation of Vera Cruz. "The people of Mexico are absolutely incapable of self-government," the senator declared, "and I think we have enough of such peoples on our hands now without taking on any more."

TRouble AT BREMERTON YARD

Leaders of organized labor at the Puget Sound navy yard and the officers of that station have been in talks for some time. The workmen complain of hardships under certain officers, and Asst. Secretary of the Navy, Ramsey, recently investigated the trouble with the most recent. When Secretary Daniels was in the neighborhood a few months ago, he was invited to listen to the complaints of the workmen.

At this time Rear Admiral V. L. Callahan, since retired, was the commandant, and there appeared to be considerable friction between the naval officers on duty at the yard and the leaders in the organization of employees. Representative Bryan of Washington has interested himself in the situation and complains that the navy department has paid no attention to the privates and appeals for relief. The latest contribution to the subject on the part of the secretary of the navy is a letter to Representative Bryan as follows:

My Dear Mr. Bryan:—The receipt of your letter of March 10, regarding a statement of March 10, handed to me by a committee of workmen of the Puget Sound navy yard is hereby acknowledged.

In reply I would say that the statement referred to contained a number of complaints or illustrations of what were considered unjust conditions or hardships in the course of certain employees. Many of the subjects treated in the statement were of a general nature which admitted of no direct reply, and others were seemingly complaints of dissatisfied individuals. The statement was referred to the commandant of the yard who carefully investigated every item thereof and reported that he was taking steps to ascertain defects in the management that could be eliminated and that he had interviewed the secretary of the committee and had informed him that—

"Some of the statements were true and others did not state all the facts, and that they were not made with the idea of assisting the management in making improvements but were an unfair and unjust criticism—knowing—whereupon the secretary of the committee stated that he did not know of the facts cited of his own personal knowledge and he just put it in."

In view of the facts, further action on this document by the department

GREAT BRITAIN MAY COME TO PANAMA FAIR

Decision Not to Participate Will be Reconsidered; But the Plans Will be Modified.

London, May 5.—The British Government will reconsider its decision not to participate in the Panama-Pacific Exposition at San Francisco, and it probably will decide that Great Britain shall officially be represented at the fair in a distinctly modified form. Premier Asquith this afternoon received a deputation from the House of Commons, representing more than half the membership of that body, and gave his promise to submit the views of the Parliamentarians to his colleagues in the cabinet. The suggestions of the deputation was that the British Government should erect a special governmental pavilion where would serve as a rallying point for British subjects from all parts of the empire. Mr. Asquith intimated that this proposal, which would be in the nature of a complimentary acceptance of the invitation to participate without committing the Government to much expenditure, would likely commend itself to the cabinet ministers.

Convicts and Road Work.

There will be general interest in the series of meetings to be held under the auspices of the educational department of the national committee on prison labor, as one of the questions to be considered relates to the employment of convict labor on roads. Many other matters pertaining to prison life and management will be discussed, but the question of using convict labor in road building is one that will take the attention of the public generally, as roads are a subject of the greatest importance and one in which all classes are interested.

In various parts of the country the practice of working convicts outside of the prisons has been in vogue for some time. The "honor system" prevails, and it is claimed that the results have been very beneficial to the prisoners as well as to the public. And it would seem that if convicts are to be employed in the open there is no better place for them than on the highways.

In the past there has been complaint that work done by convicts detracts from the opportunities of free labor, and yet it is not easy to understand why men imprisoned for any cause should not be compelled to do what they can toward their own support. If they do not support themselves, in part or in full, the burden must fall upon the public as a whole, and this includes every man and woman who works for a living. Let no one flatter himself that because he does not pay taxes on property he is not a taxpayer. Every man who lives in the country pays taxes. He may do this indirectly, but he pays them.

And it would be difficult to name an employment that should conflict less with free labor than road making, for the simple reason that after the convicts had done all they could for free labor as there was before. The country is awake to the importance of good roads as never before, and if convict labor can be used to advantage in constructing or repairing them it would seem to be the part of wisdom to make such use of it, so far as practicable. The subject is well worthy of consideration, and the discussions of it to be held at the meetings of the prison commission will be awaited with interest.

A prominent medical authority declares that antiseptics are being too freely used by the people in petty cases, because they destroy cell tissue as well as germs. How dangers to life and health multiply in these days of regulating all our actions by "science!"

This is not a propitious time for the story of Roosevelt's adventures in South America. There are more thrilling incidents nearer home.

Villa sticks to it that he does not want to be president of Mexico. He evidently realizes the perplexities and dangers of the position.

Colorado still keeps its position on the first page.

CURRENT OPINION

Walls of Sing Sing Prison Should Be Razed; It Is Nothing but a College of Crime.

Sing Sing should be abolished, and for the sake of society its walls should be razed. As a substitute such prisons as we have at Great Meadows, where we aim to punish, but as well to reform, should be built. I recently went to Sing Sing. I was looked for a few minutes in one of the cells. They are dark, damp and in every way depressing, with no ventilation at all except a bucket. They are mentally, morally, physically and from every point of view such a place you would not put your dog in. If you did, he would go mad.

Sing Sing prison is a college of crime. It breeds crime in the community. It is not only a college of crime; it is a pest house. It breeds pestilence in the community. It is not only criminal on the part of the community for itself; it is a stupid blunder on the part of the community against itself. If it be true that we have a criminal class incapable of reform, the state is responsible for it in no little measure through the maintenance of such places as this.—By Bishop David H. Greer of Protestant Episcopal Diocese of New York.

DORIS KEANE IN "ROMANCE."

Edward Sheldon is becoming well known among American dramatists. He is represented in Boston today at the Wilbur Theatre by his newest play and most sensational hit "Romance," in which Charles Dillingham presents Doris Keane, America's newest star and one of the most brilliant. It was "Romance" that gave Doris Keane her opportunity and it was her success in "Romance" that caused Mr. Dillingham to promote her to the dignity of stardom. Exceptionally long runs of this new famous play were had in New York City, Chicago and Philadelphia and wherever Miss Keane has appeared she has succeeded in securing unreserved endorsement.

The prologue of "Romance" takes place on New Year's eve, 1813, and the three acts that follow are in the months of November and December, 1870, while the epilogue goes back to the same period as the prologue. The play itself is supposed to be the story that Bishop Armstrong, aged 80, is telling his grandson in the prologue and illustrates the great adventure that occurred to him when he was a young rector of 23, when he fell in love with an exotic creature, an Italian prima donna known as La Cavallini. The purpose of the old bishop is to warn his grandson against his intended marriage with an actress, but the youth entirely misunderstands his grandfather's object and the recounting of his story instead of acting as a deterrent serves as an incentive to him to go and get married the next day. The play is redolent of lavender and lace, of music of days that are far away. The Wilbur, Boston's newest and most beautiful theatre, presents a crowded condition at every performance.

AT THE SHUBERT THEATRE.

Next Monday night E. H. Sothern begins a fortnight's engagement at the Shubert theatre, with the following arrangement of plays for the opening week: Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights and at the Saturday matinee, "If I Were a King"; Thursday and Friday nights and at the Wednesday matinee, "Lord Dundreary"; Saturday night, "Hamlet"; "Charlemagne," the novelty of the engagement, will be given during the second week.

"If I Were a King" will be recalled as Justin Huntly McCarthy's romantic play, done originally by Mr. Sothern a dozen years ago with remarkable success. It is a work of unusually fine literary and dramatic qualities, and its revival has renewed all its former popularity. The character of Francis Villon, the roystering poet of the Paris slums, and the central figure in the piece, affords Mr. Sothern an opportunity for splendid and finished acting in the romantic field. Lord Dundreary displays another side of his art, a whimsically eccentric comedy portrayal, splendidly originated by his distinguished father, nearly a half a century ago, and still prolific of vast entertainment in the hands of the son. Mr. Sothern's Hamlet is the most notable, because of the wider scope it affords for acting, and undoubtedly the most popular of his Shakespearean characterizations, and it has placed him in the front rank of classic actors.

Elizabeth Valentine, a young actress of whom much has been written in praise, will have the leading feminine roles in Mr. Sothern's repertoire. Other principals in the large company are Frederick Lewis, William Morris, G. W. Wilson, J. Sayre Crawley, Walter Connolly, John S. O'Brien, Lark Taylor, Joseph Latham, Alma Kruger, Millicent McLaughlin and Ida Goldsmith. The curtain during Mr. Sothern's engagement will rise at 8 o'clock evenings and 2 o'clock at the matinees.

"WITHIN THE LAW"

"Within the Law" Bayard Veiller's melodrama of modern conditions in New York life, now the current attraction at the Majestic Theatre, Boston, treats, interestingly of the minimum wage in that it tells the story of a shop girl who is unjustly accused of theft, and sent to prison for three years. In the first act she has a terrible scene with her employer, the owner of a department store known as the "Emporium" in which she tells him in plain language of the temptations which he places in the paths of his girl employees through starvation wages and the consequent privations they are forced to undergo. The rest of the play is devoted to the absorbing story of Mary Turner's revenge. In association with a gang of crooks, Mary preys upon society, but manages to keep within the pale of the law always. The play makes a very strong appeal to the emotions and compels the sympathy for those who are driven to commit crime by certain existing commercial and social conditions. The cast is of unusual excellence and includes Jane Cowie, Florence Nash, Orme Caldar, William B. Mark, Dodson Mitchell, Wilbur Taylor and Kenneth Hill.

On Monday next the play enters into its fourth month in Boston.

Even people who pride themselves on being able to talk on other things than the weather are talking about the weather. Such existing weather conditions are calculated to try the cheerful optimism of the most optimistic. Although the cold wet that May has given us thus far is a little out of the usual run, it is not as many people seem to think unprecedented. MAKING A MARKET FOR MANUFACTURERS

When a manufacturer of a nationally sold product uses the newspapers for his advertising he is not wasting any ammunition.

He is making a market just where he believes it will pay him best. He is gaining the support of the dealers in that market as well as the support of the buying public.

He can see the results at once. He can rectify mistakes before it is too late.

Manufacturers are coming more and more strongly to realize that newspaper advertising has a tremendous effectiveness that is not possessed by any other medium.

CUT THROAT WITH RAZOR

Howard E. Collins of Kittery Point Commits Suicide at Sister's Home.

Howard E. Collins of Kittery Point committed suicide at Kittery on Tuesday forenoon by cutting his throat with a razor. His body was not found for some five hours later.

Mr. Collins who is a ship filterer helper at the navy yard, has been in ill health for some days, but he was feeling much better during the last few days.

Tuesday morning shortly after ten o'clock he visited his sister, Mrs. Charles Bailey on Old Ferry Lane and remained there some little time talking with his sister, and he appeared in better spirit than for some time. He left his sister's house shortly after ten o'clock and that was the last seen of him alive.

Shortly after five o'clock Mr. Bailey came home and went to a shed near the house to get some coal, and he was horrified to find the body of Mr. Collins lying across the coal pile with his throat cut. Collins had been dead for several hours and he had evidently gone directly from his sister's house to the shed and committed the rash deed.

In his clothes were found a receipt for his grocery bill which he had paid that morning, but there was nothing which would indicate his motive for taking his life. He was ill some time ago, and recently when he was feeling bad he remarked that rather than stand another sick spell he would do away with himself. It is supposed that he was worried over his present illness.

Mr. Collins was 34 years of age and he has lived in Kittery Point all his life. He lost his wife two years ago and he leaves a son, Howard E. Jr., and a daughter Elizabeth of this city, two sisters, Mrs. Charles Bailey and Mrs. George Colby and one brother George W. Collins.

COL. HOYT STILL ON DUTY.

In writing about an old friend recently, reference was made to the past services of Colonel Albert H. Hoyt, in which he was mentioned as enjoying his "otium cum dig" as though he had retired from the service of his "Uncle Sam." It now comes to us that "otium cum dig" will apply to the case in hand, if we take the rendering that B. P. Shillaber (Mrs. Partington) gave to it—with the emphasis on the word "dig," for Ben. Shillaber was always digging, and the "otium" was always rendering that pleased, rather belonged to him. In this instance Col. Hoyt probably enjoys the "otium" of a comfortable chair and a commodious desk in the U. S. sub-treasury office in Boston, where he has been employed for 27 years and is still on active duty, with all the "dig" that comes to his work. Long may he live and see yet many years of the full enjoyment of "otium cum dignitate." Boys, get out your Latin dictionary. L. W. B.

KILLED HIS MILLIONAIRE FATHER

New York, May 5.—Arthur Duryea, 31, retired millionaire starch manufacturer and Civil war veteran, was murdered early today at his home in the Bayridge section of Brooklyn by his son, Chester Duryea. Seven shots were fired by the son into his father's body, causing instant death.

The murder occurred on the porch at the rear of the Duryea home, where both father and son were in the habit of sleeping. About one o'clock this morning Chester Duryea, who is 43 years of age, slipped from his cot in the house, where he kept a number of rifles, revolvers and shotguns for hunting purposes. He selected an automatic pistol and a magazine rifle, both of which he loaded and returned to the open-air porch. Standing within a few feet of his sleeping father, he first fired from the rifle and then emptied the revolver.

Chester Duryea would give no reason for killing his father when taken into custody. For the past few days servants told the police he had been acting strangely and they had feared a return of a previous breakdown. In 1909 when he showed signs of mental trouble his father sought to have him removed to Bellevue hospital for observation, but as he was not violent this request was refused.

At the outbreak of the civil war Duryea organized the Duryea zouaves and became its colonel. He served throughout the war, retiring at its close with the rank of brigadier-general.

General Duryea's father was the founder of the National Starch company and the general succeeded to the presidency of the company. The general retired from active business life some time ago.

Chester Duryea was admitted to practice law and had intended to take up the legal business of the starch company, where his father was the head. Domestic troubles, that culminated in his being divorced by his wife in 1912, discouraged him in this ambition, friends explained. The divorce action, begun in 1901, is also said to have been the beginning of trouble between Chester and General Duryea, the father taking the side of his daughter-in-law against his son.

Mrs. Chester Duryea before her marriage was Miss Nina Larie Smith, daughter of Franklin Waldo Smith of Boston.

For some weeks Chester Duryea has spent much time at home and after the shooting it was found that he had been engaged in writing, a pile of manuscripts, the result of his work, being taken by the police for examination for a possible reason for his act.

Although servants said that there had been no quarrel between General Duryea and his son before they retired for the night, an overturned table,

LIVESTOCK INCREASES ON NATIONAL FORESTS

Figures showing the number of live stock for which the secretary of agriculture has authorized grazing permits for the ranges on the 160 national forests during the year 1914 have just been made public. Nearly 11 million animals can be grazed, including nearly 2 million head of cattle and horses, nearly 8 million head of sheep and goats, and about 65 thousand hogs. This means an increase for the current year of about 38 thousand more cattle and horses, and 347 thousand more sheep and goats, although the gross area of the national forests at the beginning of 1914 is almost a million acres less than at the beginning of 1913.

During 1913, according to the reports just compiled, more than 27 thousand stockmen paid the government for grazing permits on the national forests.

For several years past the carrying capacity of the national forest ranges has been slowly rising, which, forest officers say, indicates an improvement in general grazing conditions and a better utilization of the forage resources. They claim that this is due mainly to the enforcement of better methods of distributing and handling stock.

On the lands recently acquired by the federal government within the Appalachian region of the east, regulated grazing has been undertaken this year on six distinct areas. The local stock owners who had previously used the land under lease from the former owners have readily accepted the change of ownership and appear to be favorably impressed with the methods employed by the forest service for grazing purposes. While the number of all animals authorized to graze on these southern Appalachian forests is not large, it is the belief of the forest officers in charge of them that under careful supervision the lands will support more stock than they have in the past and that there will be considerable improvement in the individual animals, with a constant increase in meat production.

NAVAL NOTES

Navy Yard Management

Undoubtedly the naval appropriation bill as reported from the house naval committee would have contained some provision relating to navy yard management had it not been for the statement of Secretary Daniels, made to the committee during the recent hearing, to the effect that he had no problem under careful consideration and desired an opportunity to further investigate and possibly to apply in an experimental way at one or two navy yards some ideas which had been presented to him and which for the present meet with his tentative approval. He has further informed the committee that he will probably be prepared to make a definite proposition in detail at the beginning of the next regular session in December. In the meantime Mr. Daniels intends to give the subject the most careful study. For the present he is inclined to favor a separation of the military from an industrial branch of a navy yard, detailing as commandant a line officer of the usual rank and assigning to duty as head of the industrial plants an officer who may be of line or staff and chosen from any grade, the main consideration being individual qualification. The proposal also meets with the indorsement of those members of the naval committee who have undertaken to solve the problem of navy yard management and who accumulated information during last summer's tour of inspection of the eastern navy yards. Some of these members have entertained and still entertain the impression that a radical change should be made and have given expression to this view in a casual way during the hearing of the secretary of the navy. There is a conservative view however, which is destined to ultimately prevail, and it is considered that here will be no violent change in the system by virtue of anything which Secretary Daniels may recommend requiring congressional action. He considers that much, and perhaps all, that is necessary may be accomplished by departmental order. It is realized that the economy effected in the navy yard management will be of the indirect sort and is not likely to come from any reduction in the number of civilian employees or from a diminution of the work which is being sent to the navy yards, either in the way of new construction or by the repair of naval ships. It is the policy of the Navy Department to keep the navy yards going at maximum capacity, so far as available appropriations will permit, and this program will be followed if it is necessary to reduce in greater measure the amount of work done under contract.—Army and Navy Register.
